PLOT SUMMARY

THE MIMICRY OF PEACE is an ornithological musical about the noise someone can hold no matter how at peace they seem to be.

Reece and Wyatt lived in peace and quiet until their Pigeonhold enclave opened a residency to make money. Their inaugural resident is the former drummer of The Canaries who goes by the stage name, Chim Lac, who is supposedly commissioned to write for the United Nests (UN). However, they have been pedaling metal on their bronze drums. THE MIMICRY OF PEACE is about one's true/false self, environmental migration, peace amongst neighbors, and the art of imitation/intimidation.

In Pigeonhold, Reece and Wyatt live in peace and quiet until the stork sends them the news of their expectant egg and hospital bill ("Pigeonhole"). They need to return to the city life in order to raise their hatchling. They decide to open up a residency in their enclave, so they do not need to sell it ("Hatch a Plan"). Soon, their inaugural artist-in-residence is the former drummer of The Canaries who goes by the stage name, Chim Lac. Supposedly, the United Nests (UN) have commissioned them to write a song for them ("May You Finch"). They show off their bronze drums. However, Chim Lac has been dropping noise after noise rather than coherent notes ("Dropping Notes") Reece and Wyatt are not better at giving good notes either ("Ruffle My Feathers"). Chim Lac briefly goes out to perform at Beacon. Reece and Wyatt investigate the bronze drums. Reece senses life within them ("How to Cry Peace in Vietnamese"). However, Wyatt accidentally damages the drums and releases bad fortune ("Flipping the Bird"). Chim Lac returns to see the damages done and prepares to call the police via message in a bottle. But, Reece and Wyatt asks to spares them. Instead of calling the authorities, they call their fanbase ("Under Our Wings").

In the following act, the enclave is trashed. The Canaries's fanbase treated the place like Woodstock. Chim Lac moves out early ("That's All I Gotta Say About That"). Reece remains curious about the bronze drums. Chim Lac lets Reece hold onto them ("Sow the Bird Seed"). Wyatt gets some quiet time with the night sky ("Quiet Time"). Reece plays the bronze drums ("Wing It"). Reece mentally visits Vietnam ("Please the Vietnamese"). Reece lays the egg ("Egg On"). Chim Lac returns for their bronze drums and reveals themselves to be recording music as a member of the secret metal band, United Nests ("United Nests"). Eventually, Reece's egg hatches. And so, Reece and Wyatt can no longer find peace and quiet ("Peace and Quiet").

CAST OF CHARACTERS

REECE, adult, a pink-necked green pigeon, Wyatt's partner, a spiritual Pigeonhold resident who escaped the city

WYATT, adult, a Chinese flying pigeon, Reece's partner, a spiritual Pigeonhold resident who escaped a country

CHIM LAC, older adult, a pink-necked green pigeon, the former drummer of The Canaries and Pigeonhold's inaugural artist-in-residence who is trying to escape writer's block

✿ Androgyny Ornithology: Each character resembles the androgynous nature, with open-ended vocal requirements

✿ People of Asian descent most represent the experiences of these birds; cast accordingly
